County Is One of World's Largest Dairy Cow Markets

Los Angeles county is one of the largest dairy cow markets in the world and will in all likelihood continue to grow, in the opinion of Dr. L. M. Hurt, head of the county livestock department, who made the observation in his annual report to the board of supervisors.

"There is no artificial factor involved as far as the dairy cow market is concerned," Dr. Hurt said. "Our dairymen are expert buyers; they have to be if they continue in business. There are no better judges of dairy cattle in the country than the buyers and shippers who operate in this area."

The marked increase in prices of dairy cows during the year has stimulated interest in raising calves, his report stated. During last year, probably 10 percent of the calves born in the county are being raised beyond the veal stage.

Dr. Hurt has urged dairymen to add to their herds by keeping the best calves. Instead of spending hundreds of thousands of dollars outside the state each year for dairy cattle, much of this money could be spent at home. Soil, topography, water, climate, and abundance of natural foodstuffs make possible the development of any and all breeds of food producing animals, the department head stated.

First Lighthouses Built Too High

On the Pacific coast, lighthouses were formerly built too high. This strange fact was recently revealed by the W.P.A. Federal Writers' Project, now compiling a complete tourist guide to the state of California.

One light built too high was the original light at San Diego, erected in 1855. Four hundred and sixty-two feet above sea level, the highest in the United States, this light was useless most of the time. Because of its elevation, the light was often obscured by high fogs, when below it the coast line was perfectly visible. In 1891, this lighthouse was abandoned in favor of another only 88 feet above sea level.

At the present time, on the whole Pacific coast, there are only four lights more than 100 feet above sea level.

Singing Cascade of Death Valley

Sparkling mineral water—85 inches—running to waste in a region where thirst has killed hundreds, traced by Automobile Club of Southern California scouts. It originates in a thermal spring at the base of the Amargosa Range six miles north of Furnace Creek and the Inn, and leaps nearly 100 feet. Formerly big herd sheep were trails to it, now wild burros haunt it, while tourists are just appearing.

Toyland On Parade

OLD TEDDY BEAR WADDLING BACK THIS CHRISTMAS

The old-fashioned teddy bear, which has resisted all ultra-modern streamlining tendencies, is staging a comeback this Christmas. The stuffed animal kingdom in toyland, however, is dominated by dogs, with a sprinkling of non-political elephants and donkeys.

In marked contrast to the unchanging teddy bear are the 1936 model dolls, designed by sculptors, with real hair and fingernails. Blonde curls are more popular than brunette tresses, and the "redheads" are gaining in favor.

Quinis Not Forgotten
Style dictates have been observed in the latest doll wardrobes displayed at the toy centers here. Fur coats are shown in the current flared, high collar styles, with matching fur hats. Models appear for every social function from tea to skiing.

Doll voices have become clearer this year. Manufacturers say they are proof against laryngitis. A new style walking doll, without windup machinery, makes its debut, as do smiling and pouting dolls.

Toyland hasn't forgotten the quintuplets this year, but the counterparts of the famous babies have grown into toddler clothes. Haircuts add to the "growing up" effect.

ADULT GAMES TO PUT BULGE IN YULE PACK

Santa's stock for fireside fun this Christmas, will be the biggest in 35 years, say toyland managers.

Adult games realistically reproduce dealing methods of real estate traders, Wall Street speculators and politicians' strategy. The most popular games are listed as Monopoly, Highway Patrol, Play Safe, Easy Money, Make a Million and G-Men. There is a distinct trend in modern games to emphasize chance, big gains or big losses may result.

Basketball, baseball and football strategy have been reproduced in fireside versions. For active parlor sports there are many variations of rubber quoits, dart games, miniature bowling, top spinning games, table tennis and ring toss.

Racing New Fad
Regardless of the supposed sophistication of the age, most of the fireside favorites of the gay 90's have been dressed up in de luxe packaging for grown-up stockings. Checkers, Chess, Lotto, Bingo, Parchesi and Anagrams are a few of the old favorites. Racing is another game fad that has gained in favor. Dogs, autos and planes have joined with horses as the inspiration of this parlor sport.

Electric train sets, model building kits and woodburning sets seem to have an enthusiastic following among hobby-minded adults. Movie projectors and chemistry sets also have attained favor.

Pneumonia Patients Making Progress

Two pneumonia patients are making good progress at Jared Sidney Torrance Memorial hospital. One is Robert Earl Denney, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Anna M. Denney, of 838 West 164th street, Gardena, who was received Monday. The other is Thomas W. Fair, 1934 Bayview Drive, Hermosa Beach, who entered the hospital Sunday.

ESCAPES INJURIES

Charles Taber, well-known Lomita deputy sheriff, escaped injury Saturday night altho his car was badly damaged when he was involved in an accident because of fog. He was en route to a meeting in Los Angeles.

Children Will Bring Gifts For Needy

The annual Christmas church school service for children will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. Andrew's Episcopal church. This will be the 45th year of the Yuletide program around a decorated tree in the Guild hall. The children will bring gifts for the needy to the church service and deposit their offerings in a manger.

Rev. F. Murray Clayton, minister, announces that the traditional midnight service will be held as usual Christmas Eve, beginning at 11:30 p. m.

Your rent money will buy a home.

Former Teacher Has Early 'Gift'

Announcements were received here by friends of Mrs. Leona Holland, a former kindergarten teacher at the Torrance elementary school, of the arrival of her first child, a son named Roland Edgar and weighing eight pounds four ounces, Monday at Oxnard. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Holland reside in San Pedro.

PUBLISH STATEMENT
Authority to proceed with the printing of a statement of Los Angeles county's bonded indebtedness was given County Auditor H. A. Payne this week by the board of supervisors. Cost will be approximately $641.
